Team Roles and Responsibilities

While everyone is responsible for the final research product, splitting up core administrative duties keeps the project moving smoothly over the next 4 weeks.

Discuss and assign who will primary take on these rotating or fixed roles:

- The Project Manager (The Organizer): Keeps track of deadlines, ensures everyone is on task, and manages the master Google Doc/slides.
- The Lead Researcher / Data Archivist: Ensures sources are credible, keeps track of citations/bibliography, and organizes shared files.
- The Communications Chief / Editor: Keeps track of group meeting notes and communications with instructors, checks for voice consistency in the final writing.

Our Role Assignments:

- Student 1: Manan will primarily act as the [Role Name].
- Student 2: Arjun will primarily act as the [Role Name].
- Student 3: Eric will primarily act as the [Role Name].

Communication and Meeting Schedule

Four weeks goes by fast, it is imperative that research groups meet daily for progress to be made. Remember to manage your time around required program events.

Where/when will we meet outside of class time? (e.g., Zoom every afternoon at 4 PM, lunch after lecture every day).

- Our Answer:

Lunch + TBD

What is our expected response time for group messages? (e.g., Within 2 hours during the day, no later than 9 PM).

- Our Answer:

(ASAP) - Within an hour before 10:30 PM

Where will our shared research files live? (e.g., Shared Google Drive folder).

- Our Answer:

Google Drive

Our Custom Group Policies

Workload & Quality Policy: (How will we ensure work is shared equally? What do we do if someone's work isn't up to par?)

- Our Policy:

Get PRs looked at by everyone; everyone should be happy + interested in what they worked on

The "Life Happens" Policy: (What happens if someone gets sick or has a family emergency? How much notice must they give the group?)

- Our Policy:

0

Research Integrity Policy: (How will we ensure all data is accurate, properly cited, and free of plagiarism/unauthorized AI use?)

- Our Policy:

GPT zero

Conflict Resolution Protocol

Even the best teams disagree. If a teammate is missing deadlines or not communicating, we agree to follow these steps:

Step 1: Talk directly to the teammate to see what is going on and offer support.

Step 2: Re-visit this contract as a group and adjust roles or deadlines if needed.

Step 3: If the issue isn't resolved within 24 hours, we will schedule a meeting with the Instructor/Teacher to mediate.

Signatures and Commitment
